

Remark:

If following signs < > „ & ‘ have been used in the password set in the old software the password does only work in the new software if changing the expressions for those signs as below due to some transition issues:

< changed to **<
" changed to **"
' changed to **'

For example:

Password set in old software: 1234&4321

Password to be entered in new software: 1234&4321

After this you can change the password with the new software to your personal preference again, if set in the new software those signs work as intended it is just a transition issue from old to new.
